NOTHING LIKE IT.

M'NICHOLS' FOLDING BED. Country cousins come to visit
In the city in the spring,
Just when field and flower, exquisite,
Make us long for blue-birds' wing.
Yet we made them welcome truly;
Gave a dinner—royal spread;
Then a room we'd furnished newly
Put them in—with folding bed.

Time flew by: their prayers recited,
Meg and Tom at last retired.
Soon in accents wild-excited,
Words like these down-stairs were fired:
"Katy, Pick, our bed-please show it;
Not a sign we see of any."
Then said Tom to Meg: "And, blow it.
They've none here, I'll bet a penny."

Kate rushed up. I followed after;
Both stood near the splendid buffet;
And we shouted sli with laughter.
On the floor Tom said he'd rough it.
Here, then, seemed to be a pickle—
Till that buffet turned around.
Showed the prize sent by McNichol—
Better bed was never found.

Beveled mirror, drawers with handles; Comtorrs, pillows, mattress hidden; Place for wrapper, jewels, sandals; And sleep came at once unbidden. They declared—our charming cousin— Never saw she things so splendid. Folding beds we sold a dozen. Ere the first month's trial ended.

Who could help admiring such elegant and useful pleces of furnituie, when space becomes so valuable in small chambers. Every bed-room seems a parlor and no bed is more luxurious. In fact, Mac's gener one plan of selling on installments and his beautiful goods are making his name known all over the world.

P. S.—Folding beds in endless variety, fee-chest the best ever made, baby carriages, gasoline stoves just the thing, carpets, curtains, pictures pretty chairs, sofas, dishes—everything needed in a modern house—for next to nothing. Try the weekly payment plan at McNichol's.

Bryce spoke strongly of strengthening the House of Lords into an effective second chamber. He thought the experience of every free country in the world was conclusive on the necessity of a second chamber, in order to protect democracies from the sudden impulses which make governments, in Lowell's phrase, carry out, not the people's whim, but the people's will.

not the people's whim, but the people's will.

GLADSTONE'S TABLE TALK.

The London gossip quoted by me last week, gives the following further installment of Gladstone's table talk. Speaking about America and Americans, Gladstone, in pathetic tones, regretted that all his opportunities of visiting America had disappeared.

"I always feel," he said, "a deep gratitude to the American people. They have been exceedingly kind to me, kinder than I deserve. At the time of their great war I gave utterances to opinions which, considering my connection with the Ministry of the day, had better been left unsaid, but they forget and have forgiven. I am almost daily receiving tokens of the warm-heartedness of the American people, and I should like to look at them face to face in their own country."

Mr. Gladstone talked of his lately published correspondence. He spoke quite enthusiastically of the letter Rismand wrote to Moties. tically of the letter Bismarck wrote to Motley, inviting him to go and see him, and said it is quite a revelation of the inner nature of the man. He said:

"It throws a flood of light on his character, masked by official reserve. One is glad to think of the Bismarck disclosed by that let-think of the Bismarck disclosed by that letter."

Mr. Gladstone spoke in a friendly way of the Prince of Wales, who, he said, is a shrewed man, a keen observer, full of tact, always educating himself without deliberately setting down to learn a lesson, rarely opening a book but keeping himself au courant with whatever is going on in the world, and when the time comes for him to take his part in public business, acing it thorsughly. This gossip I believed to be a well-known journalist, who recently invited Gladstone te dinner. Granville, who was also present, in aslim public speech a few days ago, alluded to the published report of the dinner talk as an instance of the encroachment of reporters in modern times.

Salisbury told the Nyanz land missionaries yesterday that they need not fear Portugal laying violent hunds on their station. He would as soon expect Portugal to sail into Table Bay to annex Cape Town. ASTRAMER ON FIRE.

The Spanish steamer Emiliano, Capt. Bengeechea, from New Orleans, April 28, via Newport News, forLiverpool, has arrived at Queenstown with the cotton in her main and fore holds burning. The fire has been burning for two days. The flames spread rapidly and it was found necessary to jettison 140 bales of the burning cotton. Three seamen were overcome and rendered senseless by the smoke and heat. The deck of the steamer has started in several places. Large quantities of water and steam are being boured on the cargo in an endeavor to quench the fire. It is probable, however, that it will be necessary to discharge the cargo.

AMONG THE BROKERS.

A Boom in Frisco-Stocks Sold and Prices Obtained To-Day. The general tone of the market was unward this morning, several stocks, notably the Frisco, rising sharply, with heavy sales.

No news was received from the Frisco, but a strong demand for the stock manifested itself and the price rose rapidly with frequent fluctuations. The market opened low, the first sale, one of 200 shares, being made at 37½. Bidding then mounted to 38%, at which 300 shares were disposed of; 40 was then bid and, after 800 shares, and more stock was wanted at this figure. Bids of 45% were accepted to the extent of 1,900 shares and 1,100 shares sold at 45. There was then a slight decline in the price, 70 shares selling at 43%, at which the market closed. Although there were no official reports, rumors were current on the street that the strike in the 550-level was proving even richer than had been anticipated, and that a shipment would be made within a few days.

A meeting is being held to-day in Helena, at which the fate of the West Granite will probably be determined. Proxies representing over three-fourths of the stock are represented at the meeting, and the probabilities are that the sale to the Granite Mountain syndloate will either be completed or finally rejected. In answer to a question H. H. Wernse of Wernse & Dieckman, a firm representing a large number of the stockholders, and strongly in favor of the transfer, said that up to 2 o'clock he had hesrd nothing, and did not expect a telegram until late this evening. J. J. Mullally caused no little commotion on the floor by reading a dispatch saying: "Was in the West Granite camp. Look ent for fun." The effect of this was to send the stock up 2½ cents. The first sales were made at $1.170, at which 200 shares changed hands, the stock being subsequently offered at this figure; $1.15 bid. The market closed at $1.20 asked, $1.17½ bid.

There was a sharp rise in the Adams in spite of which there were few sales. The market opened at 55 asked, 35% bid, but suddenly rose to 85% bid, at which 800 shares sold, with offers at 85%. The advance was ascribed to the belief that the bill prohibiting the importation of Mexican lead ores would become a law, which would largely increase the value of the Adams, Small Hepes and other Leadville properties. A meeting of the directors of the Adams will be lead in Leadville.

disposed to take advantage of the ruling of the directors regarding charges for transfers to have same removed from the list, it is "Resolved. That said meeting be and the same is hereby rescinded, and those stocks of the companies that were removed from the list by reason of said ruling are hereby restored to the list and will be called and traded in, in the usual way. But with the understanding that members of the Exchange shall add any charge on charges that may be so made to the regular commission provided for in the rules of Exchange." The companies restored to the list under this rule are the Gold King, Wire Patch, and several others. All are not thought to be guity of an attempt to delude the public, but the rule had to be made general. The Ingram was listed yesterday.

W. F. Kendriek, who has long been identified with the Phillips, and who is also one of the largest owners of racing stock in Colorado, leaves for Denver to-night. Senator Major tried hard to pass the resolution, but there were enough Senators to vote a postponement till Monday. It is greatly feared that this action will reopen the troubles and difficulties that have existed for several days between the two bodies, and that the House will construe it as an effort of the Senate to whip them into the passage of a number of revisory bills before adjournment. Under the provisions of this bill St. Louis is divided into seven districts, consequently the city in the future will have only seven justices in place of twenty-one as at present constituted. The friends of the bill here believe that this will be quite an improvement on the present law, and say that if St. Louis does not get rid of her present clan of justices, it will be her own fault. The bill still leaves justices their present perquisites or fees for performing the rites of marriages, conveyances, etc. The office will be worth to a good lawyer more than $3,000 a year.

Dennis Devoy, of the St. Louis bar, single handed and alone, has fought for this bill at the capital this winter, and has won the fight against it at every stage of its passage.

The House bill to reduce the compensation of Coal Oil Inspectors to $2,000 per annum, provided the fees of the office amount to this sum, and requiring the surplus fees to be paid into the State treasury, was taken up, but enough opposition was manifested to defeat the bill on third reading, so its friends succeeded in laying it over informally so as to call it up in a full Senate next Monday. It allows the Inspector in St. Louis an assistant at $1,200 per annum.

NOW UNDER DISCUSSION IN THE CASE OF WASHINGTON IRVING BISHOP.

Trance When the Autopsy Was Held and That Her Son Was Killed by the Sur-people. To these the discussion of the case of Washington Irving Bishop must be parhas arisen, is this, was Bishop dead when the autopsy was held or was he only in a trance? and did he die under the surgeon's knife? The fact in all obability is that Bishop was dead, but his stracted mother has raised the question and r doubts cannot be disregarded con-lering her circumstances. The coroner whom she had complained found terday that the physicians had violated the law in holding an autopsy without his order or the consent of relatives and accordingly bound them over to await the result of the inquest. The leading physicians in New Fork have in the meantime been involved in when the autopsy was begun is, of course, a horrible one. The discussion of it will cause any a frightful nightmare. Bishop's mother maintains that he was not dead. She claims that once in Scotland he was in a trance for three weeks, but the Scottish physicians, who were ed in knew that he was not dead, not-anding appearances and they finally re-

withstanding appearances with the said:

"It will kill me, this cruel work, but I will find strength and life enough to bring these men—these butchers—to justice, if there is any to be sad. I will scorifice everything I have got in this world and all that I expect to punish these heartless doctors. My son has implored me again and again: 'Mother, do not let any surgeon's knife touch me after they declare me desad. Make them wait until decomposition has set in.' I promised fathfully, but these cruel men took advantage of my absence to do their fiendish work. Ivving even carried a card usually, asking that if anything happened to him his body should not be mutilated, but all this availed nothing. My address in Philadelphia was public property, but they were afraid to telegraph me or his wife for permission, these doctors; they were afraid we would refuse, and they wanted his brain, so they cut him up alive through criminal stupidity. In the name of all who have dear ones who may die away from home. I protest against this barbarous action, and I want you to make this offer for me to any scientific man who is not a friend of these men. Tell him that if he can by any means tell whether or not there was life in the body of my derling son when it was cut up I am willing that he should now take the poor cold hull, which is all that I have left of my boy, and which I prize beyond anything in this world. It was heartless, heartless, and the thought of what he probably suffered really drives me cray. I am subject to the same cataleptic trances in which my boy often fell. One can hear and see everything, but speech and movement are paralyzed. It is horrible. For six days some years ago I was in a trance and I saw arrangements being made for my burial. Only my brother's determined resistance prevented them from embaining me, and I lay there and heard it all. On the seventh day I came to myself, but the agony I endured left its mark forever."

Speaking of

THE SIGNS OF DEATH, Dr. Spitzka, the well-known insanity exper of New York, who has written several medical works, says;

"There are numerous authentic instances in which persons of a cataleptic constitution have apparently died but come to life again. which persons of a cataleptic constitution have apparently died but come to life again. So well known was this fact in the middle ages, based upon the resurrection of persons already buried or the discovery of persons who had evidently come to life again after burial, that the ordinances were changed to the effect that no person should be buried before three days had elapsed after his supposed death. In many places each body was placed in a want for some time and a bell was attached to one of the fingers of the person. "There is no positive sign of death. Prize after prize has been offered by medical societies for a positive sign of death, but the prizes are not yet awarded. All the signs thus far known are fallible, and physicians have agreed that the only positive indication is decomposition. Rigor mortis could be missaken for cataleptic rigidity, and persons have been known to be in a cataleptic trance for thirty days, when absolutely all signs of life were suspended. The breathing stopped, the heart did not beat and the person was to all indications dead. Bishop's catalepsy having evidently been inherited from his mother made it all the more intense."

"In this temperature would it have made any material difference in ascertaining the cause of death if the post-mortem had been postponed until the mother could have been communicated with?"

"No; not allot. But I don't think that the postponed until the mother could have been communicated with?"

"No; not a bit. But I don't think that the man was alive at the time of the autopsy. Under the knife, I feel almost certain, he would have shown some evidence of animation, and there would have been some flow of blood from the arteries which no experienced physician could have mistaken."

Dr. Wm. A. Hammond speaking of

said:

"I am inclined to think it a case of heart failure, because a patient dying directly of catalepsy or any form of cataleptic or hys-ferical seizure is a thing unknown unless the attack has lasted so long as to cause the patient to die of exhaustion. I know the reputation of the medical gentlemen who were present, and I think they were perfectly competent to say whether Mr. Bishop was dead or not.

petent to say whether Mr. Bishop was dead or not.

"At the same time, in view of the statements of his mother and wife that he was subject to these attacks and had previously lain in them more than three weeks at a time, I think there is just possible room for doubt that he was dead. It is sometimes a very difficult thing to determine exactly whether a person is dead or not. There are many cases on record of persons who have been pronounced dead by the most competent physicans and who, after a lapse of alonger period than five hours, have recovered. Some authorities go so far as to say that there is no sign or group of signs that are a positive indication of death except decomposition. The respiration may be suspended, the action of the heart apparently suspended, the sensibility abolished in all parts of the body, the power of motion entirely destroyed for the time being, and yet resuscitation may take place."

A little Scotch terrier that makes its home at the University Club is likely to become a fa-mous or infamous dog unless it mends its ways. A few evenings ago one of the members of the club set a glass of whisky and water on the floor for a moment, and when he reached for it again the glass was empty, but the dog had suspicious looking drops clinging to its whiskers. The little creature had drunk every drop of the whisky and in a few minutes was the most hilarious member of the party. It frisked about the room and dashed from one place to another in the wiidest fashion. The whole club assembled to watch its capers and it was the belie of the evening, until the remorseful feeling become manifest and then it laid down and grew sullep. Its feat, however, has become a part of history and the terrier has been envolled as one of the regular members of the club.

The weather seems to have had a depressing effect on the clubs. There is not much doing

Turning to the two Georgia preachers, Jones and Small, both of whom were then on the platform. Deering said, in anticipation of the storm: "This canvas is from Georgia, and, like all Georgia products, it can stand a hard storm." He was right, for the canvas of Georgia peachers stood the heaviest storm of the spring two hours. During his first sermon under the Danville tabernacle a heavy storm arose. The rain on the roof made so much noise that he had to stop talking. Turning to the preachers on the platform he remarked: "It's well to stop and let the truth soak into 'em awhile." However, much or little the truth may have "soaked into 'em," the water found its way through the roof and down the back of many an auditor. Umbrellas were boisted all over the tabernacle. The occurrence was very similar to that of last spring in this city. His Danville sermons have been in the famous evangelist's usual style and some extracts are interesting.

Another of his terse remarks were: "Show me the preacher who don't preach against whisky and I'll show you a preacher the devil is bragging on; and God help the preacher that the devil gets to bragging about."
After one of his sermons he turned to the preachers on the platform and made their hair aimost stand on end as he said in his most peculiar style: "I am glad to see so many preachers on this platform, but if you stay on it until this meeting is over the last one of you will backsilde. Now is the time for work. Get off the platform to morrow and go to work."

Mothers of the nineteenth century are so prome to push their daughters off. They don't need any pushing if you raise them right. "A man who is not religious everywhere is not religious anywhere."

Speaking about cowardly Christianity, he said: "You've got to draw the line. Why some of you can't pray God to come down and kill your enemies for if he shoots he may hit your wife. Let those who want to drink and swear go on the other side and let this be our side. Saints and sinners get so mixed up some times—saints going to sinners' bails and sinners going to saints' prayer meetings—you couldn't hardly tell tother from which. You can spot the sinner, but you often live in a town with a so-called saint two years before you find out he belongs to the church, and things are getting so that a few white aproned, bulinack barkcepers have more influence than the preachers—I am told that the good people of Danville are afraid the thirty-odd little heliholes in your city will clean you up. What are you afraid of? Afraid you will get your head cracked at the polls? Why such Christians as that would let a buil-necked barkceper take an old horse pisto! that hasn't been loaded since the war and run the whole church out of town."

Jones will return to Missouri soon. He is booked for a camp-meeting at Warrensburg on the 19th to the sist of July, after which he will go to the big camp-meeting at Culver Park, on Lake Maxinknekee, Ind.

At Mr. Villaad's office yesterday afternoon the challenge had almost been forgotten in the excitement over the stock flurry, and when a reporter called to inquire about the crank who thirsted for Mr. Villard's blood his question was anticipated by the information, all in a breath. 'Oh, yes, we have got the election; of course we have; we have nothing to do with the movement of the stock in the market this afternoon (signing a receipt for a bunch of O. The attention of Mr. Villard's sceretary was diverted to the fate of the young man who has just been thwarted in his purpose to put Mr. Villard where a jump of fitteen or twenty points in O. The Secretary said that matter is regarded by Mr. Villard as a most unfortunate affair, in which his aim is simply to follow the course that may be best for the young man. The father of young Boerckh is a German professor of excellent standing, Mr. Villard is well acquainted with all the family and his relations with the young man have been simply those of a protector. Boerckh is about 24 years old, of good education, but with some vicious instincts. He showed some signs of eccentricity in Germany before he came to America, two years ago. Nobody thought he was insane or Irresponsible, however, when he came to this country. Mr. Villard, at his father's request, undertook to keep an eye on him. On account of the young man's banker and at various times small sums of money have been paid by Mr. Villard to young Boerckh. Case Becoming Desperate—A Stay of per's warrant was issued against Lehmann justified the return of an indictment. John still professes that he did not know that his disappearance had discomfited the prosecution. He left his former residence on the night preceding the hearing of the complaint against Lehmann. It was suspected that John's brother had some information concerning the whereabouts of the missing witness. He was called as a witness. He claimed he did not know where his brother was. The statement was not accepted by the prosecution. The young to return, and for two weeks he was kept in daily attendance. Then the District Attorne; received information that the missing witness was living on Lami street and was employed n a brewery in the southern part of the city. The Grand-jury has so far been unable to establish collusion in connection with Erns John's disappearance.

This morning Mr. George D. Reynolds, who has just been appointed United States District Attorney, notified Mr. Bashaw of his readiess to assume his duties. There seems to succession. Mr. Bashaw has always expressed his readiness to withdraw as soon as his successor appeared to take up the work. Mr. Reynolds suggested waiting, but has now decided to take charge of the office. The investigation into the election frauds has, in fact, only been begun. So far the grand jury has only investigated the offenses under one statute, that governing the naturalization of foreigners. It is very probable that where such bold and premeditated frauds as those committed in the Court of Criminal Correction and Criminal Court were resorted to, the offenders did not fail to perpetrate other frauds on election day. The grand jury has not yet reached the registration and voting frauds.

The little scheme concocted in the Stat enate for the sdecapitation of Recorder of its revision the Senate inserted a clause empowering the Governor to remove the Recorder "for cause." The honesty of purpose could easily be estimated from the fact that when it was proposed to add to this a provision giving the Recorder a right to a hearing on the alleged "cause" the Senators killed the amendment. It was intended that the Governor should be the jugde of the cause without any further evidence of its existence than what he might be pleased to have presented for his consideration. It was expected that the session would be so far advanced that the House would be obliged to accept the Senator revision, but this part of the plan has been upset. The House has stricken out the interlineation giving the Governor the right to remove "for cause." The executive authority is no more extended now than it was before the revision. Senator McGrath made a fight on the bill in the Senate. As the Recorder holds a commission he cannot now be removed until the expiration of his term. its revision the Senate inserted a clause em

It later went to 39, but there was a demand for many shares at that figure, and it quickly moved back to 43, and at the close sold at 42. The unlooked-for discovery of the big short interest in Oregon Transcontinental made the brokers anxious about their short account in other stocks, and brokers everywhere declared that the market was heavily oversold. The feeling was increased by the course of St. Paul preferred, which advanced 5 per cent on an attempt to cover some short stock. The buying fever extended to Atchison and orders to cover shorts in that stock caused it to advance sharply. Burlington moved up 2 per cent and Eock Island followed. The entire bear contingent left the street anxious about the future and they wait for Monday's opening with fear and trembling.

Failure of the Almy Manufacturing Co pany of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 17,-The Almy Manufacturing Company. manufacturers of ladies' fine cloths, has made a general assign ment. The company's mills are among the largest in Kensington district and employ about 400 hands. It is expected that the embarrassment will be only temporary and that a settlement can be made without difficulty. The company's distributing office is in New York, where Henry N. Almy, the President, and Henry G. McCouch, the assignee, were yesterday. The indebtedness of the company is estimated to be upward of $200,000, of which $100,000 is for borrowed money. The nominal assets include $150,000 in goods in stock and in process of manufacture and the mill property, which is appraised at $200,000 and against which there is a mortgage of $80,000.

Sudden and Miraculous Recovery. By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., May 18.—People in the neighborhood of Concord, a few miles west of here, are greatly excited over the west of here, are greatly excited over the sudden and miraculous recovery of Mrs. Kirk-patrick, a middle-aged lady who has been helpless during the past year from a combination of diseases, including dropsy of such a dangerous character that the attending physicians pronounced it incurable and declared that it must shortly end her life. It has been necessary recently for members of the family and neighbors to sit up with her every night and her death has been momentarily expected. A few nights ago several members of the "Sanctified" or "Holmess" Uhurch, an organization to which the afflicted lady belongs, assembled at her house, and after long and earnest prayer for her recovery Mrs. Kirkpatrick rose up from her bed, instantaneously restored to perfect health, and the cure appears to be permanent.

The City Wins. Judge Klein rendered a decision to-day in the water-gas case, or the St. Louis Gas, Fuel John N. Turner, Street Commissioner, and the city of St. Louis. This case was brough into court through the operations of the Ga Trust. In 1883 the plaintiff became a company and accepted an ordinance granting them permission to lay their pipes in the streets of this city, but one of the stipulations was that the company should not enter a trust. They did enter one, however, and the city claimed a forfeiture of the charter and all rights. To prevent the city interest of the enter one, however, and the city claimed a forfeiture of the charter and all rights. To prevent the city from tearing up the pipes already laid the gas company applied for and received an injunction. They then filed suit against the city for interfering with the business of the company. In passing on the case to-day Judge Rieln said the gas company accepted the ordinance and promised to ablied by all or any part of it. "Under such circumstances," he continues, "a court of equity ought not and cannot relieve it from the consequences which its owners must have foreseen would surely follow from the course pursued by them. As in the one case the court properly left the parties to their legal remedies, so in this case the court must leave them to the same forum. The injunction herstofore granted herein is dissolved and the plaintiff's bill as it now stands is dismissed." The court them gives the plaintiff on previous ordinances may be maintained. This is a victory for the city, but is merely a form. The litigation on the question has duly begins. During the trial the gas company displayed oil ordinances and vised to show here he was a right to all on the plaintiff of the parties of the plaintiff of th & Power Co. against David R. Francis, Mayo

Woman-Other Cases.

The case of Heary O. Meyer, the proper of a saloon at Seventh and Wash street tracted some attention in the Se District Police Court this morn Meyer was charged with a disturbance of the peace, which consisted of a brutal and unjustifiable assault upon a colored woman named Mary Hall. The evidence showed that Mrs. Hall went to the sation for the purpose of trying to persuade her husband, who was squandering his money there, to go home. Meyer objected to having a good customer removed prematurely, and ordered Mrs. Hall out of the house. She did not go immediately and after exchanging a few words with her Meyer picked up a base ball bat, with which he struck Mrs. Hall a victous blow upon the back of the head. The offence occurred about ten days ago, and Mrs. Hall has been in the Cliy Hospital most of the time since from the effects of the blow.

George Hariman and two brothers named Durosey were arraigned on cross charges of disturbing the peace. It appeared that Hariman had found a ring belonging to a member of the Durosey family, which he refused of the Durosey family, which he to give up to the owner. The I boys went to Hartman's house to get the ring and a rass ensued, for Hartman had the young men arrested, man was fined $10, while the Durosey hwere discharged. Hartman and his charged with having used some very uguage during the squabble. Three boys John Hauck, Goorge Mercar and Auguston.

In urging upon the Municipal Assembly the desirability of giving immediate attention to the Union Market nuisance, we are merely voicing the sentiment of citizens generally and of business men whose interests are at stake. This fact should have great weight with the Assembly.

WE can assure the public that to-mor row's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH will not be one whit behind but rather in advance of its predecessors in all respects. Not an item of news will escape its alert corps of unusually bright and readable.

THE removal of three exceptionally large cotton factories last week from New England to Southern States, where they expect to double their capacity, is cited as a sure indication that the Southern States will champion protection in 1892. The offense with which these men are charged is serious enough to warrant a bond which will hold them to answer to it in court.

TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH will furnish valuable information on the interesting question. Is marriage a failnre? TRUSTS AND CAMPAIGN GREASE.

The same committee of the New York State Senate which a year ago made a report strongly arraigning trusts and combinations to restrain competition in trade, and recommending stringent legislation against them, has since undergone a great change of opinion, apparently as and a Republican Congress. It is true that the Democratic minority's report is an unanswerable argument in support of the committee's former position, but the Republican majority's report is a labored arraignment of competition as the thing that needs regulation by trusts and combines, which are spoken of as comparative ly harmless, if not perfectly wholesome, means of protecting trade from the evils of excessive competition. The antagonism between the report signed by ARNOLD, O'CONNOR, COGGEchange is very simple. BLAINE warned railroads with the proceeds. them that trusts were private affairs with which Government had no right to interfere, and Boss PLATT gave them to understand that their investigations and exposures had gone far enough to scare those out of whom the party would fry fat enough to grease the wheels of its campaign machinery, but any further demonstrations would paralyze the Money Power and help the Democrats. It now seems that part of PLATT's bargain with the contributors to the enormous fund spent for the Republican ticket was an assurance that the position of the majority of this committee should be reversed. The proof is in the fact that its work against trusts ceased at the opening of last year's contest by Boss PLATT's advice, and in spite of a vigorous Democratic protest. But the same names appearing attached to two distinctly opposite reports tell a plain enough story of campaign intrigue and manipulation.

The significance of it all is that the Money Power has again got full control of the reins in Congress and in the White House and is again in a position to enlarge and develop its schemes for exacting further and heavier tribute from Western industries to the watered stocks of monopolies, trusts and protected combines.

WHEN GOV. FRANCIS affixed his signature to the electoral reform bill he completed a practical measure of reform, the credit of which is due largely to the Civil Service Reform Association of Missouri. Senator SPARKS assumed the responsibility for the bill and did much of the labor which secured its passage in the Legislature, but the inception, draughting and perfection of the bill was mainly the work of the association. The members of this organization, which has been accused of wasting energy on visionary reforms, wisely concluding that closely allied with and logically preceding the improvement and purification of the civil service was the purification of the ballot box, as early as last May entered upon the work of preballoting system to prevent fraud and the use of corrupt influences at the polls. The result of that work is the bill which has just been made a law. Another bill designed to prevent bribery and all corrupt practices in elections was also prepared and is before the legislature. The Civil Service Reform Association of this State has set an example of practical usefulness worthy of imitation by all similar organizations.

THE POST-DISPATCH has furnished striking example of the power of the newsgatherers at home and abroad and press as a moral force which works for the special features of the paper will be good. It inaugurated the investigation and furnished the information of naturalization frauds previous to the November election, which led to the present fruitful work of the Grand-jury in securing the indictment of offenders against the law. By reference to the Post-Dispatch of March 10, the facts and names of witness used by the Grand-jury will be found fully published. It was the only newspaper which investigated and published information concerning naturalization Through this publication and the persistent urging of the Post-Dispatch the Federal authorities were compelled to take up the frauds for investigation and the knowledge of the officials and in arousing official consciences and public sentiment. Let the work be completed by the punishment of every guilty man with- and plunder. out fear or favor.

JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER'S argument that the United States Government cannot constitutionally retain the proceeds of the direct tax of 1861 because it was not levied and collected equally according to population in all the States is heartily indorsed by such Republicans and Dem ocrats as insist on paying back the afore said proceeds. But if they examine the argument they will find it just as valid against the retention of the cotton tax.

And in both cases restitution to the persons who paid the tax is a practical impossibility. There is no constitutional flower State will go into Missouri for the rest warrant for giving it to anybody else; no of the week in order to bowl up. Turn about the fair relationship of the rest o The ex-boss doubtless knows justice nor semblance of restitution in the speaks and presents a power- doing so. It is equivalent to taxing a new ent in favor of the corrupt generation of people in all the States for unequal distribution among a part of unequal distribution among a part of them who have no more right to the pro-ceeds of the new tax than the rest. But

WHEN Senator MAJOR shall have vis ited cities a few more times and extended his observations of city life beyond the confines of bar-room and hotel lobby, he will discover that the role of the country squire who values his office not as a fee mine, but as a means of maintaining good will and fair dealing among his neighbors, is very different from that of the city justice of the peace, who, by "know ing the ropes," can work up a business worth more than the combined salaries of several circuit judges. It was to abolish this "justice business," these low litigation mills which are unknown in the rural districts, that the Legislature was asked to substitute for them a class of better constituted tribunals, presided over by qualified and salaried judges.

THE critics and the adult public have freely expressed opinions of Little Lord Fauntleroy. There is another large class of persons with whom this most popular voungster is very intimately connected and to whom he appeals most strongly They are the children who have admired his charming qualities and envied his good fortune in story and play. Their opinions of the play and the character, gathered by the Post-Dispatch's bright and handsome corps of juvenile reporters at the Olympic matinee this afternoon, will make a most interesting feature of to-morrow's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

Unshared Prosperity.

From the New York WORLD. During the past quarte 'Thirty-two corporations with a total capita of $17,900,000 have paid out in dividends to stockholders $487,560, an average of 2 71-100 per cent on the entire capital," or 10.81 pe ent a year.

They did starve out and went back to work at the old wages in "the most profitable yea ever known in the history of Fall River. And this is how protection protects.

Legalizing the Inflation of Securities

From the Philadelphia Record. Gov. Beaver yesterday signed a bill tha authorizes the wholesale watering of railroad as Senate bill 487, and was introduced by Mr. Cooper. It prescribes the amount of bond or stocks which may be issued by railroad dated or merged. It conflicts with that provision of the State Constitution which prohibits the issue of stocks or bonds except for actually received. At present the railroad se curities of Pennsylvania are watered to the extent of $352,586,068. They cost $471,199,712, and they are capitalized at $823,785,780. Thes inflated securities are to be foisted upon innocent investors, and the shipper will ultimately be called upon to pay rates that will earn in their work was rendered easy. This paper | terest and dividends to the extent of an an has done its work in bringing the facts to nual tax of over $21,000,000. Yet the Governor, who is sworn to obey, defend and sup-port the State Constitution, has given official sanction to a measure that is intended to extend and legalize this species of extortion

ITS ADOPTION AS THE ELECTION LAW OF THE STATE OF MISSOURL

History of the Sparks Billpared by the Civil Service Reform Association and Fathered by Senator Sparks -How Elections Will Be Conducted

The election reform bill which was passed by the Legislature thas been signed by the Gov ernor and has become a law. It is designed to move many of the evils that now exist and to prevent the corruption of the ballot-box. The bill has been watched with a great deal of interest, because by its provisions the entire system . of electing public officers is changed and the effect it will produce may be very important to the interests of the State. The new law brings into Missouri what is known as the Australian system, though that system has been modified to suit the conditions existing here. The ac movement which is sweeping the country. The Australian system has already been adopted by Massachusetts, Indiana, Montana, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Minnesota and Missouri, and the House of Repre sentatives of Illinois has made a similar bill the special order for Tuesday. The system will be pretty thoroughly tested during the next few years, and it will be in good running order by the next presidential election.

THE ORIGIN OF THE BILL. The bill that has been adopted in this State troduced into the Senate by Senator Sparks last January. It is numbered 53.

It was prepared by the Civil Service Reform Association of Missouri, which has been con sidering the evils of elections for some time At the annual meeting of the association in May, 1888, Mr. Charles Claffin Allen brought the matter directly forward by introduc the following resolution which was unan

'Resolved, That the use of money in ele tions, by which corruption funds are made to nullify the will of the people, and the elegified franchise is imperiled, is a great and growing evil, which requires remedy and calls for the prompt consideration of all persons interested in good government, and "Hesolved, That the Executive Committee be instructed to take up the question of "reform

THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE, a standing committee which is composed of Judge George A. Madill, Chairman, Maj. Edward Cunningham and Mr. John F. Lee. During the summer months of 1888 Mr. Allen, who is Chairman of the Executive Committee, wrote to different States, where the measure had been considered and secured copies of the laws. The Massachusetts bill and the Saxtor Valley Walley was vetoed by Gov THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE, is Chairman of the Executive Committee, wrote to different States, where the measure had been considered and secured copies of the laws. The Massachusetts bill and the Saxton bill of New York, which was vetoed by Gov. Hill after it had passed the General Assembly, were obtained and a pamphlet from Boston giving a succinct history of the system. With these documents the Legislative Committee went to work early last fall, and after several meetings the bill was framed. It was then submitted to the Executive Committee and approved, after one or two minor changes had been made. A copy of it was then sent to Senator Sparks of Warrensburg. He approved it and agreed to introduced it in January, and about the same time Representative Champ Clark introduced a bill in the House which was the same in all essential points. Senator Sparks and Representative Clark conferred several times and easily came to an understanding as to what course they would follow. The purpose of both bills was the same and they readily agreed that they would yield all minor points if the Legislature would pass the bill with ALL THE REFORM FEATURES unimpaired. The Clark bill was backed by the Single Tax League and that association was satisfied with the arrangements Representative Clark made. The Sparks bill was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections and then Senator Sparks wrote to St

sentative Clark made. The Sparks bill was re-ferred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections and then Senator Sparks wrote to St. Louis'asking that some of the friends of the bill appear before the committee and speak in fa-vor of the bill. Maj. Cunningham, Mr. Allen and Mr. Lee went to Jefferson City and H. Martin Williams, repre-

appear before the committee and speak in favor of the bill. Maj. Cunningham. Mr. Allen and Mr. Lee went to Jefferson City and H. Martin Williams, representing the Single Tax League, also appeared before the committee. The committee's session lasted about four hours, and shortly thereafter the bill was favorably reported. Senator Sparks watched its interest jealously. He secured its passage through the Senate and the only important change that was made was the adoption of an amendment limiting the operation of the law to towns of 5,000 or more. It then went to the House and Mr. Clark let his bill, which had been ordered to lengrossment, lie undisturbed, while he and Senator Sparks both worked for the latter's bill. Several days ago it passed, almost unaltered. Two or three minor amendments were made but they did not affect the material points of the bill. It was then sent to the Governor and was signed by him yesterday.

WHAT IT PROVIDES.

Under the provisions of the bill there will be put one ballot and it will contain the names of all the candidates. It will be proposed by the Recorder of Voters where there is no Recorder. Four ballots to each voter will be printed and half of them will be sent to the polis; while the other half will be held in reserve. Every ballot will be stamped with a fao simile of the signature of the Secretary of State and every one must be accounted for. The election booths will be provided with private compartment. When the ballot has been prepared it will be folded and handed to one of the Judges, who will write his initials upon it and deposit it in the box. Candidates may be nominated in convention as at present, but they may also be nominated by any fifty qualified voters, who shall sign a written notice to the Secretary of State that such person is a candidate. The nominee of no eonvention represents cast at least 5 per cent of the votes at the previous election. NEW YORK, May 18.—The funeral of Allen Thorndike Rice took place at Grace Church Broadway and Tenth street, at 10 a.m. to-day. The remains had been removed yesterday from the Fifth Avenue Hotel to the residence of his sister, Mrs. Edward Cooper. There it was that the pall-bearers assembled at 9:30 this morning. The pall-bearers were: Vice-President Levi P. Morton, Walker Blaine, representing the Department of State; Gen. W. T. Sherman, ex-Mayor Edward Cooper, Pierre Lorillard, Chauncey M. Depew S. H. Olin, William Jay, William P. Douglass, W. W. Astor. The remains were encased in a casket of solid rosewood on which was a plate bearing the name of the deceased, the date of his birth and the date of his death. The casket was completely covered with flowers. All these were carried to the church with the casket, and other emblems awaited it there. Among the gifts of flowers was one from the President and Mrs. Harrison. The funeral cortege arrived at the church at 10 o'clock. The church was crowded and the sidewalks near the entrances were also filled. The service was the regular burial service of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Bishop Potter officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Huntington, Rector of Grace Church, and Rev. Geo. H. Bottome, his assistant rector. At the conclusion of the service the remains were exposed to view in the vestibule. The pail bearers and the clergymen took up a position on one side of the casket, and all the people, as they passed out, had an opportunity to see the face of the dead editor. A BOUNCED POSTMASTER'S SCHEME.

pressing Letters. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 18 .- A remarkable case in connection with the post-office at Coshocton, Sullivan County, has been un earthed. Henry Winters was the postmaster, and in March last, soon after Postmaster General Wanamaker assumed his duties, Winter. The usual blank bond was mailed from Washington to Mr. Inderlied. The bond was executed and remailed at Coshocton, but never reached the Post-office Department. Correspondence from Congressman Stivers of this city also failed to reach Mr. Inderlied. Suspicion was at once aroused that Winters was suppressing letters from Washington and Congressman Stiver, also those sent by the new appoints. It was only by the use of plan envelopes addressed in a disguised hand to other parties that Mr. Inderlied could obtain any information, and his second bond was mailed at another post-office some miles from Coshocton. His commission as Postmaster was mailed from Washington on the 8th inst.; but he did not receive it until yesterday. Special Agent Stewart, of the Post-office Inspector's Department, appeared on the scene, and Winters soon wilted. In the latter's pockets were found Mr. Inderlied's commission and letters from Congressman Stivers and the Post-office Department all addressed to Inderlied. In found Mr. Inderlied's commission and letters from Congressman Stivers and the Post-office Department, all addressed to Inderlied. Inspector Stewart took charge of the pocketed mail. Mr. Inderlied was put in charge of the office at once, and Winters was taken to New York by the Inspector last night, the new Postmaster accompanying him.

The association was not kept up and trade began falling off. The wholesale dealers consider the conditions favorable to form another asfalling off. The wholesale dealers consider the conditions favorable to form another as sociation and regain a trade of which the have so long been deprived. In fact it is the opinion of some that St. Louis can be mad the greatest tobacco center or depot in the Mississippl Valley. An energetic effort will be made to bring this result about, bring a liber proportion of the product of other States this market and promote the interests of the State and city. of the case is this: Mrs. Bert has applied for a divorce, with custody of child, on the ground of indignities, failure to support and creek treatment; her husband has filed a cross-bill asking for a divorce and custody of the child on the ground of indignities. Mrs. Bert proved that her husband had twice deserted her and once driven her from his home; that he had been exceedingly jealous of her without sufficient cause and had denied the paternisty of her child. Mr. Bert proved that there had been an agreement to wipe out old acores at the time of the second reconciliation, and that Mrs. Bert had written after that time the very compromising letter to J. J. The case will probably turn upon the Erb letter and Mrs. Bert's explanation of the diroumstances surrounding the writing of it, though persons who have heard the evidence are inclined to the belief that both parties will be refused a divorce. There was a quantity of evidence received and contradicted that did not have direct bearing on the case. This has been the principal food of those who have listened daily to the witnesses.

VICTIMS OF VANILLA.

One Hundred Persons Poisoned b Enting Flavored Ice Gream.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 18.—South Glas-tonbury has been having a May festival in the interest of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, and crowds from the town and the neighboring crowds from the town and the neighboring villages all day yesterday passed in and out of Academy Hall, esting ice cream, seeing the sights and going away happy. Thursday night there was the largest attendance since the fair began, and the way the quarts of ice cream, particularly the vanilla, disappeared was both surprising and pleasing to the managers. After returning from the hall to their homes over 100 persons who had eaten lee crime at the feetival were taken ill. There were calls for doc tors from all parts of the town, and the fou physicians, Bunce, Rising, Kingsbury and Griswold, were kept busy Thursday night and yesterday caring for the suffering people. The systoms in every case were those that attend poisoning, the sufferers being first attacked with vomiting, then by griping pains in the stomach and convulsions.

In many instances whole families were taken sick, while in others only a few mem-bers suffered from the strange disorder. In this way the cause of the troubles was traced to the vanilla ice cream sold at the festival. The physicians express but slight hopes of the recovery of thirty-four of the victims who partook of large quantities of the known remedy for the strange disorder, and all they can do is to administer drugs that will make the patient more comfortable. In other cases, where the victims partook sparingly of the cream, the effect of the poisoning is

THE VICTIMS. Of the many victims those most affected are: Miss Cora Bates, Clifford Chapman, P. B. Gammon and family of eight persons, Howard J. Hale and family of four persons, Mrs. J. Haie and family of four persons, Mrs. Harry Miller and family of three persons, Miss Eva McLean, Mrs. Clara Otis, Miss Minnie Phillips, Geo. Pratt and family of five persons, H. M. Rising and family of four persons. In these cases no hopes of recovery are entertained. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Glazier were entertaining Mrs. B. F. Williams and Mrs. Williams S. Williams of North Glaston-bury during the evening. A messenger was sent to the festival for two quarts of vanilia ice-cream. Mr. and Mrs. Glazier and their visitors ate plenty of the cream, and a few hours afterwards were taken sick. The servants in the house were given a portion of the cream and they also are ill. Mrs. Glazier and the two Mrs. Williams are seriously affected. THE VANILIA POISON.

Dr. Henry Bunce, the town Coroner, has obtained a sample of the cream and will analyse it to determine the cause of poison. The cream was made by John Tyler, who says that with the exception of the flavoring extract similar ingredients were used in the manufacture of the other creams. No one who partook of any other flavor except vanilla at the festival suffers, and Coroner Bunce is of the opinion that the poison was in the vanilia extract. He has ordered some of it and will also analyse it. All business has been suspended in the town on account of the affair.

It would now appear that the identification of Dr. Cronin by the party who stated he saw him in Toronto last Saturday was by no means complete. In fact, I think there are the best of reasons for supposing it to have been a case of mistaken identity. It is quite true that the party here thought him Dr. Cronin and afterwards saw the man leave the city by train with a woman. As far as I can learn this is the foundation for the sensational reports that have been transmitted from here and published in your papers.

I regret that in sending my telegram on Monday last more care was not taken to verify the correctness of my informant's statement. Your obedient servant,

H. J. GRASSETTE, Chief Constable.

MISSOURI MARSHALSHIPS. The Attorney-General will consider the Marshals for the Eastern and Western Distriet, he states, for some time. The applicants are Mr. Bogy of St. Mary's, Senator Bob Allen, who is mentioned as Chaun-cey I. Filley's friend in the race; John McFall and Mr. Buchanan. When Representative Kinsey made his debut here it was with the understanding that he would support Bob Allen for Marshal and K. W. Weber of Farmington for Collector. When he entered the tripartite agreement he dropped Mr. Weber. The latter is not fully pleased and remains a formidable candidate. His friends will press him for the Congres-sional nomination against Mr. Kinsey in the next convention unless the props are straightened up in the meantime.

TESTIMONY BY A MOCKING BIRD. The Songster Furnished Conclusive Eviden and the Case Was Won. From the Savannah News.

A well-known gentleman of Savannah, Mr incoln, said to a reporter lately: "I notice in the morning's paper an interesting account which he was claimed by a soldier who had at one time been in the English army in India.' secording to the account the soldier said that

According to the account the soldler said that if the dog did not understand the Hindoostani language he would not claim him, but if he did he would consider the dog belonged to him. When the case was called in court the soldler spoke something in the Hindoo tongue, and the dog immediately recognized him, and, running through the crowd, jumped into the witness box and fawned on the soldler.

Mr. Lincoin said that this was a similar case to one which occurred in Savannah many years ago, before steamsnips went to that port. A gentleman owned a very valuable mocking bird, of which he thought a good deal. The bird was stolen. The gentleman was very much put out over it, and hunted everywhere to recover it. He heard of a visitor from the North who had purchased a mocking bird and was about to leave the port on a sailing vessel. The gentleman concluded that he would go down to the vessel to see if the bird washnot his. Upon reaching the vessel, sure enough he found a man with a mocking bird, which he at once recognized as the one he lost. He told the visitor saked him how he could recognize the bird from any other, and was unwilling to give it up until some evidence had been given of ownership.

The Savannahian finally said that he would make complaint before a magistrate, and if he did not prove by the bird itself he would not make any further claim to it. So together they went before Magistrate Raliford, who had his office at the time in a little building where the Questom-house now stands. The complaint was made, and the claimant of the bird and that he would make any further claim to it. A GHASTLY NEWGATE CUPBOARD. Full of Casts and Busts of Heads of Mur-From the London Sunday Times.

It was the practice of the authorities up to cast of the heads and faces of criminals after execution. Our guide commenced his tour of the prison with an exhibition of a cupboard the prison with an exhibition of a cupboard full of these memorials. It was a ghastly show of fearful countenances, low foreheads, large brutal mouths, full necks, strong jaws, and weak, broad chins and narrow, and beneath them all the mark of the rope which had strangled them. Seen in this fashion the criminal countenances were no doubt considerably discounted, but not so seriously as a carleaturist of some of our public men would nave us believe. How certain of the shining lights of the day might look, shorn of their hair and in prison dress, offers a temptation to any artist who is opposed in politics to the man he is drawing, but he would have to give rein to his bitterest imagination to match the countenances in the Warder's cupboard at Newgate. I could not help thinking that Franz Muller was something like—but let us not be personal.

Newgate. I could not help thinking that Franz Muller was something like—but let us not be personal.

"This is the head of Martha Browning, who murdered her mistress, you will remember, in Park lane; killed her for the sake of some bank notes, which, when she got them, turned out to be on the Bank of Elegance. This (tapping the grim bust with a curious familiarity) is Franz Muller, who murdered Mr. Briggs, and after denying his guilt almost to the last, confessed it in a conversation with his Lutheran priess. This is Greenacre, who cut the body of his victim up in pieces and hid them in various parts of the town."

Greenacre's was a tell-tale mask—a low forchead of the worst form, and a thin, wide mouth, that had had the "downward drag," stiff and cruel. A good thing for some of us that we do not shave! Do you remember the mustache movement? It was probably started by some interested person who did not care to go about with his wicked mouth exposed to the general gaze. Leech did some of his most charecteristic sketches in Pusch during that curious period. I was visiting a little provincial fown in those days, where the leading draper of the place had been hooted and called "Frenchy," and pelted for coming back after a holiday with a beard and mustache. And I remember as a boy that the records of the Burke murders were still used as Bogey by nurse maids whose charges would not keep close to their apron strings. The fear of being "burked" was a lively one for many a long year after Burk, was hanged at Ediuburg and Bishop and Williams at Newgate.

"These are the heads of Bishop and Williams." "also on particuconvent and eastle-crowued hills are the background of a lovely picture. Especially on a moonfilt night the harbor is to be seen in all its beauty. From the shores the strains of music from the military bands in the parks are wafted across the water, while among the dazzling glimmer of lights the gay promenaders can be seen winding in and out along the Alameda. As the night advances the gay scenes close, and save now and then the black specter of a huge steamer gliding silentily by, or the tinkling of a little convent bell away back in the hills, nothing breaks the silence of the night.

Cadiz is perhaps not so well known to Americans as many cities of less importance. Situated apart from the main highway of travel and having but little direct commerce with the United States, it is seldom visited by our countrymen on matters of business, except when passengers aboard one of the Royal Mail steamers or en route to some of the colocountrymen on matters of business, except when passengers aboard one of the Royal Mall steamers or en route to some of the Colonies are enabled, by a short stop-over, to obtain a cursory giance at this quaint and most fateresting of Spanish seaports.

The city was founded about 1100 B. C. by the Phonicians, who called it Cadir. It successively passed into the hands of the Carthagenians and Romans, the latter giving it, the name of Gades. Then passing into the power of the Goths it was again taken in 711, this time by the Arabs. The Spaniards got control in 122, and named the place Cales. It was known by this name when captured and sacked by the English in 1596. The loss of the city and the immense treasure held there at the time caused almost general bankruptcy in Sprin. Time and again the English attacked this beautiful city, and each time it was successfully defended. It was surrounded by the French during 1810 and 1812, being at that time the seat of the Central National Junta. Wellington's approach raised the seige of Marshal Victor's forces.

Cadiz has long been associated with the liberal movements in Spain, and has been conspicuous during more than one crisis in Spanish affairs. In fact, the first movement which overthrew Queen Isabella took place at Cadiz, September 17, 1868. Unlike most European cities, the name of Cadiz is recognized by all countries. We get Vienna out of "Lisbon," by what right I do not know. The Spaniards write the name of the Quaker City "Filadelphia" and New York "Nuevo Yorko."

The politeness of the Spaniards and Portu-

"Filadelphia" and New York "Neevo Yorko."

The politeness of the Spaniards and Portuguese is proverbial, but when I hear a Cadiz gentleman or Lisbonese say to a beggar importuning for alms, "Have patience, my friend," or "Gdd be with you," I am inclined to doubt his sincerity.

The Opera-house in Cadiz is a miniature counterpart of the New York Metropolitan. Iske the Grand Opera in Peris, the sides are formed by straight rows of boxes arranged ther upon tier. Directly in front of the stage, and in the first tier, is the royal box which; unless occupied by some member of the royal family, is kept closed. The box is emblazoned with the royal escutcheon and furnished with rich hangings.

unless occupied by some member of the royal family, is kept closed. The box is emblazoned with the royal escutcheon and furnished with rich hangings.

In an evening stroll upon the lovely Alameda one has an excellent opportunity to observe the beauty of the Andalusian women. Three parallel walks divide the people in their amusements as rigidly as any mark of caste. In the center is the promenade for the upper classes, and military. On the right runs the walk of the middle class, and on the left that of the peasantry and common soldiers. The young women were all accompanied by duennas or chaperons. Here and there along the Alapeda stood a brilliant cafe. All the women are dressed modestly in Parisan attire, and their beauty is certainly extrordinary.

Cadiz has a clean apperance, due largely to the white stone used in building. The streets are narrow but regularly laid out. Around the outskirts of Cadiz runs on Alemeda Boulevard. It is very fine. Throughout the city are numerous aquares, some large, others small. They offer a refreshing retreat, among the numerous tropical plants, to the heated pedestrian. These squares all connect with the Alameda.

The private dwellings are usually several stories in height. The ground floor is usually retained for a store room, and different families occupy the several flats. The fantastic manner in which the houses are built on the hillsides and the utter disregard to grading makes the tops of some houses on a level with the first floors of others. On the exterior the appearance of the dwelling is plain save fit the bright-hued tiles of varied colors. Large, heavy iron doors secure the entrance, and this is usually attended, as in France, by a concierge. The interior fittings are very fine. An exquisite taste, and in most cases lavish expenditure in furniture, rugs, brie-a-brac and unique ornaments characterize the arrangements.

"Nothing—nothing!" he exclaimed, hastily.
"And so you are to have a contribution in the next Century! How much is the editor to pay you for it, Lobelia?"

"I don't know. I haven't heard from him yet."
Then how do you know he is going to print

"Then how do you know he is going to print it?"

"How do I know? Because he hasn't returned it. I sent it to him nearly two weeks ago."

"O! You did! You inclosed stamps for return postage, of course?"

"Why, no, Billiger. I never thought of that. Is it customary?"

"Er-no! That is, not always," replied the young husband, mastering his emotion by a desperate effort. "It probably wasn't necessary in the case of your poem, Lobelia. And you have saved at least is cents!"

Mrs. McSwat was not exactly sure whether he was in earnest or not. She looked at him with some suspicion, but his countenance wore that look of unearthly gravity and innocence that may sometimes be seen on the face of a boy at school just after he had rolled a double handful of bird-shot over the floor.

"Lobelia," he said, after a pause, "you haven't spoten of this—this poem of yours, that is—er-ah—going to be printed next month to anybody else besides me, have you?"

"No."

"Then don't do it, Lobelia," he said. "If you can manage to hold in till the poem is printed, which"—and Billiger held his hand-kerchiet to his face and coughed convulsively in it for a few moments—"which will be only two weeks longer, you know it will be all the greater surprise to everybody. And when that poem is printed in the magazine, my dear, I'll make you a present of a pair of diamend earrings."

The trusting young wife pillowed her head on his bosom in an eccassy of graticade, and as Billiger McSwat smoothed her goiden hair and murmured in her ear soft assurances of his willingness to bankrupt himself, if necessary, in order to give her costly presents as a token his pride and admiration—as soon as the poem appeared—he could feel himself growing means and smaller and more despleable every moments.

THE OBEGON PACIFIC RAILROAD CO. THE OREGON PACIFIC KAILROAD CO. is organized for the purpose of providing the State of Oregon with an urgently needed means of communication with other States and foreign countries by means of a railroad from YAQUINA BAY on the Pacific Ocean, running through the central portion of the State to the eastern boundary thereof, a distance of about six hundred miles, where connection will be made with the railroad line already built to that point, as well as with those under construction and projected.

YAQUINA BAY, from its commanding geographi position and the scarcity of ports on the Oregon board, is destined to be the future great scapor tregon, for, among others, the following reasons irst—It is the ONLY PORT IN OREGON ON THE COMPANY. Central Eastern Oregon being a tree-less country will draw its timber and coal supply from along the line of the OREGON PACIFIC RAIL-ROAD in the Cascade Mountains. The supplies of ber and coal will be taken East on the trains going to the great fertile plains of that district for agri-cultural products to be delivered at the port of Kaquina, thus securing traffic each way. This gives, without interference, the OREGON PACIFIC RAIL-will locate and own the towns along the line of its read, and reap the benefits resulting therefrom. The principal lands through which the Company's line runs and is located are owned by the Company, amount to over nine hundred and fifty thousand illage.

The franchise confers exceptional advantages on company, and among them is the return to the company, by the State, of all taxes levied and coltrast above referred to; 30 miles are in the hands of the Construction Department, and 40 miles of roadbed through the Maineur Valley are ready for rails. The whole line will be completed by the autumn of 1990. Steel rails for completion of the road, together with fastenings, have been purchased.

The five millions of bonds now offered are the remainder of the total issue of fifteen millions provided for in the mortgage, and by an arrangement between the Baliroad Company and Messrs. Barker Brothers & Co. of Philadelphia the proceeds of these bonds are held by that firm to be paid to the Railroad Company only as the work of construction progresses.

"BRADSTREET'S" REPORT.

The State of Trade Reviewed in All the General Lines.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATON. NEW YORK, May 18 .- At most of the cities reporting by wire to Bradsired's this week, general trade is of moderate volume or only fairly active. Boston and New York only constitute mild exceptions, while at New Orleans and Kansas City the distribution has fallen off. The relatively best demand East is for an agricultural country of unsurpassed ferility, producing millions of bushels of grain annually and large yields of other agricultural products, and supporting herds of cattle, sheep and horses. The railroad sleep passes through a country rich in deposits of cat, from, gold and silver, and, for fifty miles, through one of the finest bodies of timber anywhere in the world. The timber district has been preserved to this time by the absence of needed railroad facilities.

Fifth—The whole business of Central, Southern and Eastern Oreson will be carried by the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY to Yaquina, and distributed from that port, in about one-half the timeonsumed, and at about one-half the cost for transportation charged by any other existing or projected lines.

The business immediately available to the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD, and the large business that will come to it, as its line is pushed further eastward, until it reaches Boise City, and there makes connection with the present transcontinental lines as well as others to be completed, demonstrates that Yaquina Bay is to be the future great scaport of Oregon, and the Territory of Idaho, compels all roads crossing Oregon over its eastern border to enter the State as or near the point determined as its eastern better lines by other roads is 2300 miles in length, which will enable the OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD to hold the business against competition, As distance and time add to the cest of transportation it is simply an impossibility for competition, As distance and time add to the cest of transportation it is simply an impossibility for competition, As distance and time add to the cest of transportation it is simply an impossibility for competition, As distance and time add to the cest of transportation it is simply an impossibility for competition, As distance and time add to the cest of transportation it is simply an impossibility for competition, As distance and time add to the cest of transportation it is simply an impossibility for competition, the comp wheat flour has been in fair home and foreign demand only, which with the downward course of wheat results in depression in high grade stock. Other varieties are fairly maintained. Heavy cables, splendid home orop prospects and unloading realising have influenced wheat prices to decline 2@3c and the volume of business is smaller. Supplies of corn via the canai-being large, a realizing pressure brings prices down 4ac and on spot 2@2bc. Oats are off ic in sympathy with wheat and corn. Total exports of wheat and flour as wheat from both coasts are 1,981,000 bu, against 1,273,000 bu last week and 1,683,000 last year. Increased flour shipments on the Pacific coast and wheat at New York account for this.

Pacific coast and wheat at New York account for this.

Hog products are heavy with the West on a light business. Fork is off 25c per barrel and lard 1761s points.

There has been a light business in raw sugars. Warehouse deliveries and arrivals have been freer and stocks at the four distributing ports of the United States have increased, yet holders have been confident and unwilling to make concessions, so that prices close steady. The demand for refined in preparation for the fruit season is said not to have met expectations. Stocks have therefore increased and prices have been reduced by met expectations. Stocks have therefore increased and prices have been reduced be to be.

There has been a better demand for raw coffee for jobbing and distributing requirements and in restricted offerings in some lines prices are $4c higher. In the speculative line operations were spiritless and changes slight. The market closed Thursday about steady. The higher prices of the raw material and light stock give strength to cotton goods. Frint cloths of low grades are 11-lee higher. Brown and bleached goods are in good demand. An average re-order request is reported by New York jobbers, while agents report only a underate business. At Boston the demand has improved both at first tand second hands. Dress ginghams are especially active with Boston jobbers, while printed cotton challies are active at New York.

Raw woel is active and higher in the producing districts, but duil and firm on the seaboard.

Cotton is 11-lee higher on a light movement, less favorable crop reports and better Liverpool advices.

Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 199 in the United States this week against 174 last week and 180 this week last year. Canada had 31 this week, against 92 last week. The total failures in the United States from Japuary 1 to date is 4,769, against 4,249 in 1883.

Advices from Classis are that the alipments of wheat from Odessa have rather decreased, but from the Azef ports are increasing. Odessa advices of April 20 report some damage to the crops in the central departments from hundations caused by the sudden thaw. In the Azef districts, too, the crop reports are unfavorable. At Odessa the wheat market had been pretty active, owing to the necessity to load the steamers already chartered and in port, but prices were again rather weaker. Stocks at Odessa on April 1 to 18 ware estimated as follows:

Estimates in the wheat visible run from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 tu.

Mr. Law, an Englishman thoroughly familiar with the agricultural situation in Russia, states that but little attention is being paid by the Russian Government to the urgent need of cheapening in every nossible manner the cost of Russian grain when delivered fn foreign markets. In these days of keen competition it is not possible to neglect, without serious loss, the smallest detail in this respect, and yet even the methods of agriculture remain, as a rule, primitive in the extreme. The importation of foreign agricultural implements is discouraged and railroad and shipping facilities are neglected. At the same time a prohibition tariff, drawn up in the interest of the manufacturers, forces ships to arrive in ballast, and consequently the exported grain bays the double freight for the voyage to Russia, and the return to the foreign port., It is evident that only when the crops of Russia are good and those of other grain-preducing countries beind, can Russia export grain to any advantage, and even then the wheat growers of Russia have cause to complain of the meagerness of the return.

Duil cables were again in, and there were only small receipts, the expectation of a large decrease in the visible and possible export buying to help out the long side. IS FRIDAY UNLUCKY.

How It Is Supposed to Affect Sailors-It Has Proved a Day Lucky for America.

What man or woman is there living that has not some pet superstition? asks a writer in the San Francisco Call. If any such exist let him or her be made manifest. Superstition is as old as the world and is the child of all Greek writer, said:

Some days, like surly stepdames, adverse prove; Thwart our intentions, cross whate'er we love; Others, more fortunate and lucky, shine, And, as a tender mother, bless what we design.

Others, more fortunate and lucky, shine, and, as a tender mother, bless what we design. This allusion to unlucky days brings to mind the fact that among the Romans all days that were considered adverse to the prosperity of men, or upon which it was considered dangers ous to inaugurate any movement, were marked in the calendar with a black cross. Upon such days no journey must be undertaken, and any wedding, business enterprise or undertaking, or other matter performed on such day was certain to end disastrously. Friday is emphatically a black-letter day. That it had its origin in the crucifixion is undoubtedly a fact, and other biblical events of a sinister nature are ascribed to that day.

Here are a few of them: Adam sinned on Friday; Adam was chased out of Paradise on Friday; Carist was crucified on Friday; Cain killed Abel on Friday; on that same day Etienne was stoned; the innocents were killed by Herod, Peter was crucified; John the Baptist was beheaded; the children of Israel were chased across the Red Sen; the first marriage was consummated; Lameh took two wives; one-seventh of the fruits of the earth and of the light of the sun and moon were taken away; briars and epiny and wenomous plants issued from the earth; and moon were taken away; briars and epiny and venomous plants issued from the earth; caluge; confusion of tongues took place; the plagues of Egypt visit the king of that country, and on that day heaven will close and hell will open. All this and much more may be said of that luckiess day, upon which no sailor will leave port for a sea voyage.

and much more may be said of that luckless day, upon which no sailor will leave port for a sea voyage.

The Jewish Talmud and Mahommed are agreed upon the proposition that Adam was created, sinned and was driven from Faradise on Friday. A medieval text says that Adam named all animals at the third hour, the woman ate of the apple at the sixth hour, and they were driven from the Garden of Eden at the ninth-hour. The Jewish text makes these occurrences fall on the sixth, ninth and twelfth hours, respectively.

An Anglo-Saxon authority says that Adam was created on Friday. Going still further into tradition the Talmud asserts that Adam was married and his children were born on Friday. In the Kabala it is stated that the light of the sun and moon was reduced by one-seventh after Adam's fall.

In the third chapter of Genesis, sevententh the trade of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying: Thou shalt not eat of it all the days of thy life; thorns also and thisties shall it bring forth to thee," etc. It will thus be seen that the earth was also cursed and caused to produce thorny and venomous plants on friday, on which the faithful must eat no meat. In many countries of the faithful must eat no meat. In many countries of the faithful must eat no meat. In many countries of the simple of the countries of the faithful must eat no meat. If asked to tell a fairy tale.

The fairles also object to green, and so Friday is a bad day to wear green. On Friday the fairles are surned into hideous monaters, and so remain until Monday. In north Germany if any one goes out of the house unwashed on Friday the witches catch him.

"Friday tree" in England means misfortune or trial. It is also called "hangman's day." In some parts of England means misfortune or trial. It is also called "hangman's day." In some parts of England means a misfortune or trial. It is also called "hangman's day." In some parts of England the people will drive a nall on Good Friday in memory of the crucifizion. In Yorkshire no edged tools are used or clothes washed on that day. Shoemakers abstain from work. If it rains on Good Friday the turf will be parched up three times that year. An elder bush hung up in the house on Friday will keep off the lightning. If you go into the garden on Friday catarpillars will come on every bush. The Fortuguese sallors dress their ships I mourning on Friday and scourge and hang an effigy of Judas Iscariot from the yard-arm. These are a few of the prevailing superstitions against Friday.

There are exceptions to this belief, however. It is the Mohammedan Sunday, and is, therefore, not an unlucky day with the Brahmins, and the Mogule superor is said to have exclaimed:

"Oh! that my death may happen on Friday, for blessed is he who dieth on that day." In Germany and Scottland Friday is a lucky day on which to be married. Columbus salled on Friday with a discontanted crew, and, if they had been a ffocted by the superstition, they cortainly would not have said. Moreover, he discovered America on that day; the Pilgrims landed on Friday, so that so far as America is concarned, the tradition to all at fault and of no avail.

GEN. GOBDON AND B. B. HAYES.

Why the Governor of Geogia Thinks Full Justice Has Not Been Done the Latter. From the New York WORLD.

In one of the published speeches made by Gov. John B. Gordon of Georgia, during his present stay in this city, he attracted much attention by a favorable mention of ex-President Hayes. As Gov. Gordon, although a Senator from Georgia at the time, was the accredited representative of South Carolina. In Washington, during the was the accredited representative of South Carolina in Washington during the troubled days for that State immediately succeeding the inauguration of Hayes, his reasons for this compilment to the "fraudulent" President will have an historical importance. A reporter of the World was therefore sent to Gov, Gordon at his hotel on Fitch avenue yesterday, to secure a statement from him in the premises. Gov. Gordon received the reporter with his noted urbanity and said:

"I have always felt that justice to President Hayes was not accorded by either party. It was my fortune to have opposed his inauguration to the last moment, and as long as ther was any hope of inaurating Mr. Tilden. But after his inauguration I had been asked by Gov. Hampton, who had been elected, but not inaugurated, in South Carolina, to remain in Washington and look after the interest of that State.

gov. Hampton, who had been elected, but not inaugurated, in South Carolina, to remain in Washington and look after the interest of that State.

"The condition of South Carolina at that time was deplorable and alarming. There were in the House of Representatives two Legislatures, each claiming to be the rightful House of that State. One was a negro Legislature, the other white. Upon the same speaker's stand sat two Speakers—one white, the other black—both with gavels in their hands. Through the corridors and around the Capitol were United States troops.

"This double body sat night and day, week after week, and there was constant danger of a bloody collision, the results of which no man could predict. It therefore became a matter of great consequence that this condition of things should be altered and that the United States troops should be removed, leaving Gov. Hampton to take the seal to which he had been chosen.

"I made an appeal day after day and week after week to President Hayes to sign the order removing the troops. Finally, after long and laborious, effort and in the face of opposition by his own party followers, he said to me, using the language of this import, which struck me as worthy of any man who ever filled that high seat:

""Gen. Gordon, if I take this action my own party will not sustain me, nor will your party uphold my hands. On the contrary, the Democratic party will be glad of the opportunity to strike a blow when I am deserted by any portion of my own party. The action, however, is right and I shall sign the order, knowing that my course will cause me to fail between the two parties."

"I repeat," continued Gen. Gordon with much emphasis, "that such courage, such singleness of purpose to discharge a high obligation without reference to personal consequences have always impressed me with the belief that great injustice had been done a good and brave man."

GEOGRAPHICAL NAMES. uggestions to Teachers in Regard to Spelling and Pronunciation.

From the Missien Messenger. in pronouncing the name of Helena, Mont., the accent should be on the first syllable; but in pronouncing Helena, Ark., the accent should be on the second syllable, long "e;" also make note of the fact that the Willamette river, Oregon, has its accent on the second syllable, "lam;" also that the name of Mount syllable, "lam;" also that the name of Mount Ranier, near Puget Sound, has been changed to Tacoma; also that the pronunciation of Arkansas as it is spelled is highly improper;—it is Ark-an-saw, accent on the first syllable but Ransas is pronounced as it is epciled—not Ransaw, after the manner of its neighboring state. It is interesting to note that the spelling of the capital of lowa was made "Demolns" by act of the legislature a few years ago, but it didn't stick, so Des Moines is the right spelling and is likely to be for some time to come. It is a little difficult for a native Yankee to pronounce New Cricars. "Thus unsophisticated make the "o" long in the second syllable and get laughed at for their mistake. They should say "Oriens," with the accent on the first syllable, short "e" in the second. This isn't exactly how a native accents it, but it is as near as we can tell it on paper.

THEY DID PARADE. Celumbia College Students Advertise an Attractive Dramatic Performance. By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The Columbia College Dramatic Club has performed during the burlesque called "William Penn," written by George A. Morrison of the law class of '89. Having made money with it for many college and charitable objects the club thought it would be a good thing to make some money for its fund, and to this end it decided to repeat the burlesqueat the Buckley Lyceum this afternoon and evening. While the boys were discussing means of advertising the performance [Mr. Bobert Lee Morrell of the class of '89, who is somewhat Irrevelant anyway, paralyzed his hearers by suggesting that the stately Mr. Robert Livingston Cutting, Jr., grind a hand-organ on Fith avenue, while Mr. Julian Gerard Buckley should play the monkey. Mr. Cutting repelled the suggestion with seorn and offered to bet $50 that there was not a member of the club who would make a show of himself to advertise the burlesque. The bet was taken several times over within the next minute. The show which was agreed upon as the test was to walk down one side of Fifth avenue and up the other, wearing a "sandwich" sign, calling attention to the performance. Nine members of the club came in on this agreement. It was agreed that the men who failed should forfelt $25. The procession was to take place yesterday morning to get a permit for the parade. The Mayor lost no time in refusing, because it was out of his jurisdiction. Supt. Murray declined because Supt. Murray did. The Europe of the grocession to start was 4 p. m. The sandwiches were all made, the forfelt money was all deposited and $225 was about to be lost. Mr. Buckley made a last desperate appeal to Capt. Reilly and the Captain gave them an idea; he wanted to know why they did not hire a coach and carry the sign through the streets and no one could molest them. So the Windsor Hotel coach was trotted out and a dozen boys set upon it each carrying one of the signs, Mr. Edwip Main Post, Jr., stood in the middle striving to maintain the attitude of "Liberty enlightening the world." The other boys used their sandwiches for shields against the shower of stone and banans peels that small boys kept up, and with all the students whooping the college whoop the thing of the procession to start was 4 p. m. The sandwiches who ping the college w ought it would be a good thing to make

A VERY SENSATIONAL STORY.

An Alleged Russian Count's Attempt to Po son His Female Companion.

egraph to the POST-DISPATCE CHARLESTON, S. C., May 18 .- There is a very sensational story afloat here which, although It cannot be traced to a satisfactory founds tion, has caused great excitement an eral people who swear to the truth of it. Several weeks ago a man of retired habits of life appeared in Charleston. He claimed to be a Russian Count of ample means seeking health and quiet. He lodged in a quiet part of the city with a valet who was scarcely ever seen. The valet was taken sick soon after the Count's arrival in the city, and although the illness appeared to be quite serious, the nobleman refused to call medical assistance. This created a little suspleion and vesterday a gentleman living at the same hotel investigated the case and found to his astonishment that the valet was in reality a young woman and she was being sigwly poisoned with morphine. She prayed the gentleman to take her away from the Count, who, she said, was only a common tailor from the West named Gumpy of Cincinnati. He intended to kill her. The woman refused to give her name or tell why the Count wished her out of the way. Finding that he could not get a satisfactory story from the woman the gentleman left to inform the authorities and the proprietor of the hotel. The room was visited again in about half an hour and found to be empty. The sick valet and Count Gumpy had disappeared and have not been heard of since, aithough diligent search has been made. be a Russian Count of ample means seekin

The Wrestling Fakirs.

by Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch. ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 18,-The wrestling match here to night between Greek George and James McLellan, the English wrestler, was one of the best ever seen in Rochester and James McLellan, the English wrestler, was one of the best ever seen in Rochester. The Casino Theater was selected for the contest, and with the thermometer almost in the 90s, the crowd sweltered and waited. Thos Coyle, the local sparrer, officiated as referee, and a newspaper reporter as time-keeper. The men started at about 9:30, each wearing silk tights and bared to the waist. They appeared in splendid condition. The betting was slightly in favor of the Greek.

Nearly five minutes elapsed before the men went fairly to work. Then the Greek assumed the offensive, but only for a moment, allowing the Englishman to get the upper hold. Then began a struggle for the mastery which held the close attention of all. The perspiration on the wrestlers' bodies made as sure hold almost impossible. First one would get a neck grip then another only to slip and change positions. It soon became evident that George was trying to wind the Englishman by allowing him to tug at him and try to get him over. At last he suddenly took the offensive and fought desperately to get a hammer-lock hold, apparently grinding McLellan's head into the floor. The latter, however, is the quicker of the two, and owing to the slippery condition of his body, mangled to wriggle out at first. George again went under and as quickly come to the top. After a desperate effort he succeeded in getting the Englishman on one arm lying across him on his back. McLellan's hold was the only thing that saved him. It became evident, however, that the Mancheter's strength was falling and his efforts became weaker and weaker. George at last assumed the offensive and after five minutes succeeded in getting a sure hammer-lock and McLellan was on his back after a bout of 99 minutes. After twenty minutes' rest time was called and the men were at it again. This time, however, the Greek easily showed his superiority and the hammer-lock again brought McLellan to his back after a struggle of 13½ minutes, the match was Graeco Roman, best two in three falls for $250 a side.

The Charles Green Stakes.

As the time approaches the interest of the spring meeting of the Jockey Club, which will be held from June 1 to 15, is steadily increasing. The prospects for the meeting are very finttering and without a doubt it will be the most successful ever held in the West. Sixty thousand dollars is offered in stakes; two purses and five races will be given each day. One hundred horses are now located at the track and before the Derby Day it is anticipated that fully 400 to 500 horses will be quartered at the grounds, thus assuring slerge fields in all events. On the seventh day of the meeting the great Charles Green Stakes for 3-year-olds will be contested for. Forty horses are eligible to the race and among the most noted are: Cassius, a Kentucky Derby starter; Long Fish, who came in third in the Kentucky Durby; The Lloness. Sportsman, Glockner, who has won twe races at the matinees here; Hon. John B., Don Jose, the favorite in the Winters stable and the winner of several good stake races in California during his career as a 2-year-old, and Gannymede, Calientis and Janova of the Santa Anita stables. Besides those named there are among others probable starters and without a doubt ten horses will start for the rich stake. The following is an estimated value of the stake. Added money, $1,500; thirty-four declarations. $240; thirty forfeits, $750; ten starters, $500; total, $2,900,

Sealed proposals for the programme and hitching privileges for the thirteen days of the spring race meeting were received at the Fair Grounds' office to-day. duce sufficiently to continue actively in the saddle.

As printed on Tuesday last McLaughlin blamed the Southern weather for a good deal of his superfluous fiesh, but a gentleman who is very near to the great rider, and who is in a position to know, says that Jimmy has grewn greatly through the chest during the past six months and that his days as a jockey are about mumbered. The probabilities are, however, that he will be able to get to 120 pounds and at that weight will find plenty of work to do, as there are lots of horses running daily that carry more than that penalty.

McLaughlin is worth five pounds on the back of a 3-year-old, or in the start of a short distance event, and many owners would be glad to declare overweight in order to have him ride. It was said yesterday that, in the event of his being able to continue riding, the Dwyer Bros. will give him ten or a dozen horses to train. George Hankins, his employer, went to Latonia after the Brooklyn Handicap.

In addition to the Stone-Lumsden races to be run on the new cycle track next Saturday, the committee have decided to add a number of other races, for which useful and pretty prizes will be offered. Special events will be arranged for safeties. All entries should be addressed to W. M. Brewster, 309 Olive street.

Yesterday's Games.

The Browns played with all their old-time vim yesterday and won from the Brooklyns hands down. They batted Lovett all over the hands down. They batted Lovett all over the field, hitting him just as they pleased. In the fifth inning Clark, who was catching for the visitors, called to Manager McGunnigle to take Lovett out of the box, but McGunnigle refused to do so, as there was no hope of winning the game and he did not want to tire another pitcher. King pitched a magnificent game and was given splendid support by Boyle, who caught the first seven innings. O'Neill was hit in the eve with a pitched ball in the first inning and had to retire, McCarthy going from right to left field, Comiskey from first base to right field and Milligan covering first base. The last two innings of the game Milligan caught and caught well, too. The final score was 11 to 2 in the Brown's favor. Base hits—Browns, 19; Brooklyns, 5. Errors—Browns, 2; Brooklyns, 1.

The Louisvilles were besten on their home grounds yesterday by Columbus by a score of 2 to 4. Baldwin and Peoples for Columbus

It hits—Browns, 19; Brooklyns, 5. Errors—Browns, 2; Brooklyns, 5. The Louisvilles were beaten on their home grounds yesterday by Columbus by a score of 9 to 4. Baldwin and Peoples for Columbus and Stratton and Cook for Louisville were the batteries. Base hits—Columbus, 13; Louisville, 10. Errors—Columbus, 2; Louisville, 10. Errors—Columbus, 2; Louisville, 3. At Cincinnati yesterday the home team defeated the Baltimores by a score of 14 to 5. They batted Cunningham free and hard, while the Baltimores were able to do little with viau's delivery. Baldwin caught for Cincinnati, 3; Baltimore, 7. Errors—Cincinnati, 3; Baltimore, 7. Errors—Cincinnati, 3; Baltimore, 9.

New York defeated Pittsburg at New York vesterday by a score of 11 to 7. Keefe pitched one inning and then gave way to Hatfield, who finished the game. Krumm, a new man, was tried by the Pittsburgs. Brown caught for New York and Milier for Pittsburg. Base hits—New York, 8; Pittsburg, 11.

In a ten-inning game played at Philadelphia and Whitney and Dally for Indianapolis were the batteries. Base hits—Philadelphia, 13; Indianapolis, 10. Errors—Philadelphia, 14; Indianapolis, 10. Errors—Philadelphia, 16; Indianap

Farewell to Brooklyn.

The celebrated City of Churches' delegati whose achievements are of the diamon order, will bid farewell to-morrow to the cold eruel mortals of the Mound City, who have so cruei mortals of the Mound City, who have so relentiessly shattered their hopes, and Sportsman's Park will be tested to its utmost capacity to accommodate the people who want to witness the departure of Byrne's Brooklyn beauties. The farewell ceremonies will be thoroughly interesting and the St. Louis pet, Parisian Bob Caruthers, will in all probability fire up the pitcher's box with all his old-time zeal and ambition. Silver King, with his cannon-ball speed, will defend the St. Louis fortifications and the battle will be waged with the fierceness of a civil war. Play will be called at 3:30 p. m.

Base Ball Briefs. os will be here Monday.

Arlie Latham has a little entertainment in reserve for Bob Caruthers when the latter appears in the box. Bob and Arlie do not stop to elucidate upon topics as they pass by.

Curt. Weich, who is the peer of any center-fielder living, is playing wonderful call with the Athletics. He is hitting, running bases and putting up a great fielding game in a style which is a pleasure to behold.

In the eighth inning of yesterday's game, Corkhill drove a fly into the right field seats. Boyle, who was playing right, backed to catch it and turned a back somersault over the fence. He was not hurt, however.

There is not that incandescent light of joy hovering over Mr. Charles Byrne's face that there was on the morning of his arrival. An expression akin to the loss of something now occupies the front apartments formerly taken up by Mr. Joy.

up by Mr. Joy.

The Brooklyns are, by all odds, the strongest team that has visited here. The Browns have been fortunate in batting the visitor's pitchers, but the Bridegrooms stand up and hit the ball squarely and hard. Even in yesterday's game, although they made few safe hits, they made the Browns do some fine fielding. The visitors are certainly a team of hitters.
